

Evelyn Frye

I was born in a small town in California, graduated from a California State College and became an educator for Fresno Unified School District. I retired after 35 years.

As a native California resident I have always cherished and valued the important role agriculture is to our state and local economics.

My husband and I have been farming pistachios in Madera Co. for 50 yrs. During that time we have seen the growth of the pistachio industry in our state. Preserving our legacy of producing a quality product is extremely important. I am committed to working with all of you and our industry toward this goal.
